De Havilland Canada Amalgamation is Cleared to Land

Dear Valued Customers and Suppliers,

Recently we informed you of the upcoming amalgamation of De Havilland Flight Operations Limited, Viking Air Limited, Longview Aviation Services Inc., Longview Distribution Services Limited and De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited, into a common parent company, Longview Aviation Capital Corp. The amalgamated entity will be renamed De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited.

After months of preparation to ensure the transition is smooth for our valued stakeholders, we are pleased to announce the amalgamation will be completed and effective August 1, 2024.

As reminder - the amalgamation will only impact Canadian entities and will not impact De Havilland Canada's newest acquisitions Kitchener Aero Avionics Limited (doing business as Mid-Canada Mod Centre), its wholly owned subsidiary Avionics Design Systems Limited, and De Havilland Parts & Aerostructures Limited (formerly Calgary-based aerospace parts manufacturing business of Field Aerospace). These organizations will continue to operate as subsidiaries of De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited. Additionally, our flight and maintenance training company, De Havilland Aviation Training Limited, will not be included in the amalgamation.

See Key Corporate Reference Guide to make the required changes for August 1, 2024. Please distribute within your organization and to any sub-tier suppliers that will be impacted by the change.

In the meantime, our team remains on standby to provide information to assist your organization through this important transition. Please don't hesitate to reach out to us by contacting your De Havilland Canada Sales/Customer Account Manager or Procurement Agent/Supplier Manager if you have immediate questions or concerns.

Regards,

De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited
